The President's Foreword

The story of program grants for 1984-85 was a familiar one for the Council: rising demand and no real increase in funds. The Council has tackled these questions in the Five-Year Plan and is now reviewing its priorities in light of the Government's reaction. In the meantime, the practice of peer review ensures that, although not all worthy applicants are funded, the best receive reasonable grants to pursue their ideas or to prepare for productive teaching and research careers.

This Supplement to the Annual Report for 1984-85 has been delayed by several factors, mainly by the changeover to computer registry of grants and fellowships. This will improve publication in the future. It will also enable us to better gauge the effects of our grants and fellowships on the social sciences and humanities research enterprise.

The move to a two-part report itself follows the example of other councils. The first part is a short formal report to Parliament; the second looks at grants, fellowships and scholarships in detail.

President

Avant-propos du Président

L'histoire des subventions et bourses de 1984-1985 est l'histoire qui se répète : une demande qui s'accroît et des fonds gelés...ou presque. Le Conseil s'est prononcé sur ces problèmes dans le Plan quinquennal et est à considérer ses priorités dans le contexte de la réaction du gouvernement. En attendant, nous nous assurons, par voie de l'examen par les pairs, que même si les bons chercheurs ne sont pas tous subventionnés, les meilleurs reçoivent des subventions viables pour poursuivre leurs idées ou pour préparer des carrières fructueuses en recherche et enseignement.

Ce supplément au Rapport annuel de 1984-1985 est publié en retard pour plusieurs raisons, et notamment parce que nous étions à procéder à l'informatisation de nos données. Ce changement nous assurera que ces dernières seront publiées de façon plus éfficace. Il nous permettra également de mesurer plus facilement l'impact de nos interventions sur l'entreprise de recherche dans les humanités et les sciences sociales.

La publication pour la première fois d'un rapport en deux parties reflète la pratique en vigueur dans les autres conseils. La première partie est un court rapport formel au Parlement; la deuxième présente les détails des subventions et des bourses accordées.

Research Grants Division

In 1984-85, the demand for research grants increased again and the accompanying success rates reflected the increasing pressures on the Council's budget. While the number of research grants awarded increased slightly over the previous year, the total amount of money available for research grants decreased from $23 million to $21.8 million.

In the regular Research Grants program, for grants of between $2,500 and $100,000, 848 awards were made to scholars in 50 different disciplines. Of these, 622 awards were new, and 226 were renewals for continuing research projects.

Eight major research grants (three renewals; five new), for projects requiring a budget of between $100,000 and $250,000 over three years, were awarded a total of $1,288,702. Nineteen large-scale negotiated grants projects accounted for $5 million.

Two million dollars was distributed in lump sums to 75 universities and other institutions to cover the research expenses for their scholars' smaller projects, through the General Research Grants program.

As in the previous year, Council resources could meet less than half the demand for funds. Only very careful scrutiny of budgets and trimming of less essential costs allowed the success rate to better 50 per cent of those applying. Even then, several meritorious projects were rejected for lack of funds.

La Division des subventions de recherche

En 1984-1985, la demande pour des subventions de recherche s'est de nouveau accrue et le taux de succès traduit les pressions sur le budget du Conseil. Le nombre de subventions accordées représentait une modeste augmentation mais le budget disponible est tombé de 23 à 21,8 millions de dollars.

Le Conseil a accordé 848 subventions aux chercheurs dans une cinquantaine de disciplines, dont 622 nouveau projets et 226 pour des projets renouvelés, ceci pour des demandes variant entre 2 500 $ et 100 000 $.

Huit grandes subventions de recherche (ayant des budgets de l'ordre de 100 000 $ à 250 000 $) ont été accordées, pour un total de 1 288 702 $; par ailleurs, les dix-neuf grands projets de subventions concertées représentaient un budget de 5 millions de dollars.

Des subventions d'aide à la recherche générale, totalisant près de 2 millions de dollars, ont été versées en paiement intégral à 75 universités et autres établissements en remboursement des dépenses de leurs chercheurs.

Comme ce fut le cas l'année précédente, le Conseil n'a pu subventionner que la moitié des projets présentés. Ce ne fut qu'en scrutant rigoureusement les budgets et en réduisant tout poste budgétaire non-essentiel qu'il fut possible d'en arriver à ce niveau de financement. On a dû néanmoins refuser des projets méritoires faute de fonds suffisants.

Strategic Grants Division

The Council has now had five years of experience in granting funds to stimulate research on themes of national concern, and to develop research facilities and resources, through infrastructure grants, across the country. Thirteen per cent of Council funds awarded in 1984-85, or $7.4 million, went for these purposes.

Thematic grants are offered in five priority areas: Population Aging; the Family and the Socialization of Children; Women and Work; Managing the Organization in Canada; and the Human Context of Science and Technology. Education for a Changing Society and Native Issues are two new themes proposed in the Five-Year Plan; other areas under study are Development in the North, and Law.

In 1984-85, Council received 180 applications for thematic programs and awarded 91 new grants, worth a total $3.4 million. Both applications and awards were down more than 50 per cent from 1983-84, as a result of rumours that the Government did not plan to renew the extra funding of $3.9 million, made available particularly for strategic grants in each of the two previous years. In this climate of uncertainty, many researchers chose not to take the time to prepare proposals. Eventually, $3.3 million was voted in supplementary estimates, well after the June 1 application deadline.

In 1984-85, strategic infrastructure grants amounted to $3.5 million. Programs offering infrastructure aid include Aid to Small Universities; Support to Specialized Collections (Strengthening of Specialized Collections, and Fleeting Opportunities); Population Aging research tools and facilities, and institutional grants for research centres and visiting scholars; and Canadian Studies Research Tools. A major review of the latter program was undertaken, and Council approved recommendations for simplification and clarification of procedures.

La Division des subventions stratégiques

Il y a maintenant cinq ans que le Conseil de recherches en sciences humaines accorde des subventions dans le but de promouvoir la recherche dans des domaines d'intérêt national et afin de développer l'infrastructure nécessaire à la recherche dans les sciences humaines au Canada. En 1984-1985, ces subventions se sont élevées à 7,4 millions de dollars, soit 13 pour cent du total des fonds octroyés par le Conseil.

Des subventions stratégiques sont offertes dans cinq domaines prioritaires : le vieillissement de la population; la famille et la socialisation de l'enfant; la femme et le travail; la gestion de l'organisation au Canada; et la science, la technologie et les valeurs humaines. Dans le Plan quinquennal, deux nouveaux thèmes sont proposés : l'éducation dans une société en transformation et les études autochtones; les autres domaines à l'étude sont la mise en valeur du Nord, et le droit.

En 1984-1985, des 180 demandes reçues dans le cadre du programme des subventions stratégiques, 91 subventions ont été accordées totalisant 3,4 millions de dollars. Depuis l'année dernière, les taux de participation et de réussite ont chuté de plus de 50 pour cent. Cette réduction est due à des circonstances particulières plutôt qu'à une perte d'intérêt dans le programme; elle a également engendré un certain climat d'incertitude chez les chercheurs, qui croyaient que le programme de subventions stratégiques aurait pu être supprimé. Les inquiétudes des chercheurs n'étaient guère appaisées lorqu'à la date limite du concours, le 1er juin, le budget n'avait pas encore été fixé. Enfin, même quand le budget annoncé comportait un financement supplémentaire de 3,3 millions de dollars, il était, de toute évidence, trop tard pour renverser la situation créée par l'incertitude.

En 1984-1985, les subventions pour les coûts d'infrastructure se sont élevées à 3,5 millions de dollars et ont été offertes dans le cadre des programmes suivants : aide au petites universités; aide aux collections spécialisées (accroissement des collections spécialisées de recherche, et occasions uniques); le vieillissement de la population (instruments de recherche, et subventions destinées aux centres de recherche et aux chercheurs invités); études canadiennes : outils de recherche. Ce dernier a fait l'objet d'une étude très importante et le Conseil a approuvé les recommandations visant à en simplifier les modalités.

Fellowships Division

The training of Canadian researchers in the social sciences and humanities is a major objective of the Council and a major portion of its budget has always been allocated to the scholarships and fellowships programs. Each year, about 1,350 awards are given to students to assure Canada of a sufficient supply of qualified researchers.

The number of new applications for doctoral fellowships continued to climb this year, while success rates fell from 24 per cent to 14.5 per cent. Council offered only 364 new fellowships as compared to 605 the previous year.

This reduction is linked to the fact that doctoral fellowship holders are now eligible for a fourth year of support, in the form of a renewal of their award. As a result, the number of renewals increased from 401 in 1983-84 to 648 in 1984-85.

To reduce the growing number of applications for doctoral fellowships, Council also amended its eligibility criteria. Students registered beyond the fourth year of a doctoral program are no longer eligible.

Council realises that it will have to provide supplementary funds to the Doctoral Fellowships Program if it is to reach a success rate of 25 per cent for new candidates and ensure a reasonable number of renewals.

The Special MA Scholarships Program was also affected by the tight budget. Since the start of the program in 1973, Council has awarded only 100 scholarships per year. However, the number of demands grows yearly, rising from 464 in 1982 to 594 this year.

Obviously, the steady increase in applications has an adverse effect on the success rate. The Council, concerned about the viability of the Special MA Scholarships Program, instituted a major review during the year.

The Postdoctoral Fellowships Program has also seen fluctuations in its rate of participation and success. The award rate for new applications has fallen from 61 per cent in 1981-82 to 28 per cent in 1984-85.

Although the number of awards granted in these programs has fallen over the past five years, the Council remains fully committed to them. But only a major increase in funds will produce a reasonable rate of success.

La Division des bourses

La formation de chercheurs canadiens dans les sciences humaines est un des objectifs majeurs du Conseil et une large portion de son budget y a toujours été consacrée. Chaque année, environ 1 350 bourses sont accordées à des étudiants pour assurer que le Canada dispose de chercheurs qualifiés en nombre suffisant.

Le nombre de nouvelles demandes de bourses de doctorat a encore augmenté cette année, tandis que le taux de succès est passé de 24 à 14,5 pour cent. Le Conseil n'a donc offert que 364 bourses nouvelles, comparé aux 605 de l'an dernier.

Cette diminution est directement liée au fait que cette année, les titulaires d'une bourse qui désiraient obtenir une aide financière pour une quatrième année d'études doctorales, avaient droit à un renouvellement. Par conséquent, le nombre de renouvellements de bourse a augmenté de 401 en 1983-1984 à 648 en 1984-1985.

Afin de réduire le nombre croissant de nouvelles demandes au programme de bourses de doctorat, le Conseil a également modifié un de ses critères d'admissibilité. Le Conseil ne subventionne plus les étudiants inscrits au-delà d'une quatrième année d'études de doctorat.

Enfin, le Conseil estime qu'il doit attribuer des fonds supplémentaires au programme de bourses de doctorat afin d'obtenir un taux de réussite de 25 pour cent des nouveaux candidats et afin d'assurer un nombre raisonnable de renouvellements de bourse.

Le programme des bourses spéciales de maîtrise est également touché par les contraintes budgétaires. Depuis la création du programme en 1973, le Conseil n'accorde que cent bourses annuellement. Cependant, le nombre de demandes s'accroît annuellement, passant de 464 en 1982 à 594 cette année.

Il est évident que de telles augmentations aux taux de participation ont un effet néfaste sur les taux de réussite. Le Conseil s'est donc penché sur la viabilité du programme et a entrepris cette année une étude approfondie du programme.

Le programme de bourses postdoctorales a également subi des fluctuations dans ses taux de participation et de réussite. Le taux de succès pour les nouvelles demandes est passé de 61 pour cent en 1981-1982 à 28 pour cent en 1984-1985.

Quoique le nombre de bourses accordées dans le cadre de ces programmes aient diminué depuis les cinq dernières années, le Conseil reste sérieusement engagé envers eux. Cependant, afin d'assurer un taux de réussite raisonnable, le budget attribué à ces programmes devra être augmenté substantiellement.

Research Communication and International Relations Division

The year was one of consolidation and review for the Research Communication and International Relations Division, itself the product of a re-organization. The change recognized the role of international exchanges in the dissemination of research results and the need for operational support of research communication.

The key policy review was of the system for Council grants to the two umbrella bodies whose member associations include a large proportion of the Council's university faculty clients. Council approved proposals for long-term, stable funding of the Canadian Federation for the Humanities and the Social Science Federation of Canada. A discussion of this is available in the Council's September 1984 publication, Council Support of the Social Sciences Federation of Canada and the Canadian Federation for the Humanities. Another major step was the appointment of a Task Force on Technology and Research Communication, chaired by Council member Terrence Hogan.

In the learned journals program, 116 journals were supported, with $1.8 million in total grants. A further $1.2 million was allocated to the two federations for the operation of their Aid to Scholarly Publications program, which supports publication of some 150 scholarly works each year.

The year was also a time of consolidation and streamlining for the Aid to Scholarly Associations program and the Aid to Occasional Scholarly Conferences program, whose new program designs had been introduced over the two previous years.

For international conferences, 333 awards, totalling some $500,000 were made, with a further $187,000 going to 120 Canadians serving on boards of international scholarly associations.

La Division de la diffusion de la recherche et relations internationales

Au cours de l'année, le Conseil a procédé à la consolidation et à l'examen de la Division de la diffusion de la recherche et des relations internationales, elle-même constituée à la suite d'une réorganisation. Le fusionnement de ces deux divisions avait pour but d'affirmer le rôle des échanges internationaux dans la diffusion des résultats de recherche et de reconnaître le besoin d'apporter un appui administratif.

L'examen fondamental portait sur le système de subventions du Conseil aux deux organismes-cadres, dont les associations membres regroupent la majorité des clients du Conseil qui appartiennent à un corps professoral. Le Conseil a approuvé les recommandations concernant le financement stable et à long terme de la Fédération canadienne des humanités et de la Fédération des sciences sociales du Canada. Le rapport du comité ad hoc intitulé, Aide accordée par le Conseil à la Fédération canadienne des sciences sociales et à la Fédération canadienne des études humaines a été publié en septembre 1984. La désignation d'un Groupe d'étude sur la technologie et la diffusion de la recherche, placé sous la présidence d'un membre du Conseil, Terrence Hogan, a marqué une autre étape importante.

Dans le cadre du programme des revues savantes, une aide financière a été accordée à 116 revues grâce à un budget total de 1,8 million de dollars. Un montant additionnel de 1,2 million a été consacré au programme conjoint d'aide des fédérations en vue de la publication de quelque 150 ouvrages savants, chaque année.

Le Conseil a également procédé à la consolidation et la simplification du programme d'aide aux sociétés savantes et au programme d'aide aux colloques savants, dont les nouvelles structures administratives ont été instaurées au cours des deux années précédentes.

Un montant total de 500 000 $, réparti en 333 subventions, a été versé au chapitre des conférences internationales et un montant additionnel de 187 000 $ a été accordé à 120 Canadiens siégeant au conseil d'administration d'associations savantes internationales.
